Realistic overview of labour market

Currently the IT field is in rising and the jobs related to it are on the rise on the labour market and I am very optimistic about the future of the IT field. I know that there are hardships and it's not always that good as it looks like but in the current world situation this market is one of the biggest ones that is always in high demand of new people.

Study results so far

I am very happy with my study results so far, until now i have passed everything except 1 exam but i am planning to pass it during the resit at the end of the period.

Team's perspective (do not fill this in, team = team of lecturers)

Other remarks

After the summer break the 2nd year of studies will start. I expect this year to be harder then the first one and I know we will be working with real clients which might prove difficult to handle. I plan to choose a good team to pair up with if possible and do a lot more self studying in order to meet the expectations of my team and the project. But overall I expect everything to go well and I think i can face all the challenges that are ahead if I plan properly and put in the effort.
